Demos up for review		Any class or appointment qualification criteria up for review goes off what is on the website. For instance, if the number of weekly classes are up for discussion, whatever the number of weekly classes are (in the month the demo takes place) would constitute as evidence for reviews. If a class schedule or appointment widget is not viewable without creating an account, or being a member for instance, then we will use whatever can be found on the website/LinkedIn helping us to understand their qualification level. For instance, we could use a class schedule PDF, number of staff on their about us page, LinkedIn profiles for job titles.
AE Negligence		AE no show AE late to meeting without communication AE reschedule: leading to no show or cancel AE to AE hand off: leading to no show or cancel
Software Preference		If a prospect specifically states they do not want to use a booking software -- this is technically a reason to disqualify a lead. This is different than if they do not have a preexisting booking platform. So long as they meet demo parameters; they are OK to book.
